Go beyond the work

Looking for a way to make homework help time more effective? Learn to build a more supportive relationship with youth, helping them to get organized and focus. CASE for Kids staff teach elements that transform homework help time into an opportunity to build relationships and nurture positive growth, beyond just getting the work done.

About CASE for Kids

CASE for Kids services improve program quality and equalize access to afterschool, summer and enrichment opportunities – because what happens between school and home matters. To learn more about CASE for Kids' services, visit www.afterschoolzone.org

About the presenters

CASE for Kids staff will present this workshop based on content developed by the David P. Weikart Center for Youth Program Quality, Forum for Youth Investment and High Scope Foundation. Recent findings from the Youth Program Quality Intervention (YPQI), a randomized experimental study, demonstrate that exposure to and use of this content improves program quality in out-of-school time settings. CASE for Kids trainers have been certified to deliver this content. This event, however, is not directly affiliated with or sponsored by any of the organizations that developed it. Nevertheless, the Weikart Center and Forum are pleased that you have selected this evidence-based content to advance your quality improvement initiative.
